FINANCIAL WORLD TRIBESMEN ROUTED: Commerce Home Plan,

NEW YORK STOCKS IN A BOLD RAL

Market is Evidently Discounting the President's Message —Situation Considered.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.-A broad, active, strong market. One of the old-fashioned kind, with sharp advances all along the line and with Reading, Union Pacific, Great Northern, and United States Steel preferred favored. There is not the slightest question, but what the market is discounting a favorable message from the President to Congress As stated before, Wall Street has way of obtaining inside information of good, and also of unfavorable news. When it breaks with a fury it is safe to say that bad news has leaked and is say that had news has leaked and is being discounted. And the same is true of good news. The street expects that the President will "temper the wind to the shorn lamb," that he will recognize that combinations of capital are part of the latter-day commercial life, and that in every way consistent with his policy of antagonism to vicious trusts and rebating railroads, he will endeavor to reassure and placate capital, trusts, and railroads.

railroads.

Wall Street evidently knows what's what, or thinks it does. Following the same theory and the usual action of Wall Street in similar cases, there should be a reaction immediately after the message has been given to the eighty-odd millions of people.

Will the Advance Continue.

The question that interests the Street more than anything else is, Will the advance continue? The belief that there will be a reaction of profit-taking and that the whole situation, while unquestionably better, is not what might be called entirely well, leads to the concalled entirely well, leads to the conclusion that reactions are likely to follow from time to time. Then there is something like $9,000,000 of money coming out of the banks on account of dividends and interest payments with the 1st of January. Much of this money will be immediately reinvested in stocks. Immediately on the resumption of currency payments by New York and Chicago banks, will the country banks draw down their deposits to the limit? Will the people draw out their money and start in buying securities? These are the interesting questions.

For a long pull, one, two, three, or four years, the stock market is, in our opinion, a purchase for a big rise. The people who will receive millions in dividends will reinvest much of the money. Country banks will probably draw down their balances, but not to the limit by any means. Much of the crop movement must be financed, but much has already been taken care of.

This is the way many men of Wall Street feel about the situation today.

must be inanced, but much has already been taken care of.

This is the way many men of Wall Street feel about the situation today. But the banks are going to be very cautious. Their efforts during the late unpleasantness, to keep above board, are too fresh in their minds to permit of much enlargement of the market speculatively. Margin trading has been resumed, but only partially, and the margins asked are nothing like normal, so that the buying today and yesterday has been by strong parties.

It is not likely that there can be any steady upward movement, but that an advance will be followed by at least a partial reaction, a five-point gain by a three-point loss, and so gradually with play on sides, the market will move toward a level much above present values.

FINANCIAL GOSSIP

Value of American farm products for 1907, $7,412,000,000. That's going some.

The orange and lemon crop of South ern California netted $23,000,000. But the railroads secured the great bulk of the profit for carrying charges.

A flood of inquiry for steel rails is reported. Steel mills are starting again and the echo of the disaster is commenc-ing to sound, less loudly in ears that have heard.

Dun and Bradstreet are both hopeful and believe that business conditions are rapidly reaching normal.

George J. Gould refuses to give an opinion as to the cause of the attacks on the Missouri Pacific shares. General opinion places the blame on the reported bad physical condition of the properties.

BY FRENCH TROOPS

Natives Believed to Have Lost 1,800 Men Since Wednesday.

ORAN, Algeria, Nov. 20 .- Reinforced by their artillery, the French troops have again succeeded in beating off the Beni Nassen tribesmen and their allies, and are briskly following up their advantage, chasing the rebels into the mountains, cutting off detached forces, and putting stragglers to the sword.

The natives met with heavy losses in a fierce engagement yesterday at Adjerudkiss. Since their first attack on the French outposts Wednesday, they are estimated to have had fully 1,800 men killed.

The Algerian tribes con hue to rally to the Beni Nassen forces aid, however, and it is far from certain even yet, however, that the struggle is over. Twenty villages in the vicinity of Adjeroudkiss have been burned, either by the natives or the French.

Amendment Finds Opposition.

"The House refused to concur in the Senate amendment, and thereupon the bill was ordered to conference. On June only was ordered to conference. On June 2, 1896, Senator Gallinger submitted the conference report which was concurred in by the Senate on that day. (Record, pages 5988, 5898.) This report shows that section 5 was thereby amended so as to provide that the issue of any greater number of shares of stock than shall be equal to the actual cash without be equal to the actual cash value of said plant and the necessary cost of construction of future extension or fu-ture enlargement of plant was prohibited.

"This conference report was presented to the House June 2, 1896, volume 28, part 7, and debated (same volume pp. 6007 and 6008). It will be found that the chairman of the House Committee during the course of this debate stated in substance that the bill reducing the price of gas could not pass unless section 5, as amended by the conferees, was adopted. It is believed that the previous history of the increase of stock of the Washington Gas Light indicates an intention that the increase of capian intention that the increase of capi-tal stock shall not be made from un-divided profits accrued or to accrue.

Increase Rate.

"It is also believed that if the valuation of the 'plant' of gas company includes all of its property and franchises and good will for the purpose of enabling said company to increase its capital stock, that there is danger that such valuation of property will increase the rate of gas to consumers, or at least prevent a reduction of said rate, for the reason that a reasonable profit on the property of the company thus ascertained will not allow a reduction in the price of gas under the law governing the regulation of rates of publice service corporations. It, therefore, appears that there is ambiguity in section 5 respecting the meaning of the word 'plant;' that the delegation of the authority to ascertain the cash value of the plant as an exercise of judicial power to a court is of doubtful constitutionality, and that said section may, if continued in force, prevent the reduction of the price of gas, irrespective of the cost of production thereof, I respectfully suggest your consideration of these matters and your determination whether it is advisable or not to ask Congress to suspend said section 5 by joint resolution pending the investigation of the effects of this section and of remedial legislation.

"Authority will be found for such a resolution of the cost of the cost of production for such a resolution in the case of the cost of production and of remedial legislation. "It is also believed that if the valuation of the effects of this section and of remedial legislation.
